

No Opt Out Cueing Tool Kit

Four ways to get to an answer:

- Other student provides cue; original student provides the answer.
- Other student provides answer; original student repeats.
- Teacher provides cue; original student provides the answer.
- Teacher provides answer; original student repeats.

No Opt Out Cues – Other Student Provides Cue to Original Student

Ask for:

- The place where the answer can be found: “Who can tell James where he could find the answer?” This is especially useful in reading classes.
- The step in the process that’s required at the moment: “Who can tell James what the first thing he should do is?”
- Another name for the term that’s a problem: “Who can tell James what the term ‘denominator’ means?”
